DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically, it is unclear what the metes and bounds of the claim are. Claim 24 recites, “a cover for a ceiling fan, comprising a one-piece covering material secured to a plurality of ceiling fan blades.” It is unclear whether Applicant’s claimed invention is a cover as characterized in the beginning of the claim or as a combination of a cover and ceiling fan blades as recited in the body of the claim. Clarification is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 4, 5, 13-16, 21-23, 39-41, 43, 44, and 46-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Calvo (5,462,407). Calvo disclose ceiling fan assembly comprising: a continuous flexible frame member 64 capable of being folded into a compact form defining a plurality of fan blades 76; a one-piece stretchable fabric covering 72 secured to the frame member; and a frame holder 4 that secures the frame member to the fan motor 5. The frame holder has predefined grooves 12 for accepting and positioning the frame member. Calvo further discloses that the frame be used to create more than two blades (Column 5, lines 58-67) of the same length and the effective diameter in the range of 52 inches to 106 inches (Column 5, lines 2-7). Calvo also discloses the covering having logos and other designs (Column 4, lines 32-34).

Claims 24 (as far as it's definite), 28, 34-36, 38, 50, 52-55 and 58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Burt (4,889,543). Burt discloses a cover for a ceiling fan comprising a one-piece covering material 20 secured to a plurality of ceiling fan blades 12-15. The covering allows for any visual design that the user needs (Column 3, lines 1-5) and contains an air filter material. It should be noted that since ceiling fans are well known to be used anywhere there is a need to air circulation; it is the position of the Examiner that the ceiling fan of Burt can be used in an office, home or at an event. Also it should be noted that it is the position of the Examiner that advertising is a visual display and since Burt discloses that various visual displays may be used on the cover it would also include advertisements. Further in regards to claim 58, advertisements by definition promote companies, products and events and therefore claim 58 is rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7, 8, 10, 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calvo in view of Keyes (5,947,686). Calvo discloses all of the claimed subject matter except the cover being fabricated from Spandex™ or other fabrics, having a plurality of tabs, or an air freshener concealed in a pocket of the covering.

Keyes teaches covering for a ceiling fan blade wherein the covering can be made of spandex or other lightweight fabrics and has a plurality of tabs to secure the cover to the fan blades (column 3, lines 40-65). Keyes also teaches an air freshener concealed in a pocket of the covering (column 4, lines 19-23). Since both Calvo and Keyes disclosed ceiling fan blades having covers, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the cover of Calvo, with the teachings of Keyes, by fabricating the cover from a material as claimed, providing tabs and an air freshener concealed in a pocket of the covering for the purposes of fabricating lightweight fan blades, securing the cover to fan blade and providing air freshening deodorant to the ceiling fan environment.

Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calvo in view of Anetrini (5,516,264). Calvo discloses all of the claimed subject matter except for the cover including a sewn in band about the periphery of the cover.

Anetrini (5,516,264) teaches a ceiling fan cover wherein the covering includes a sewn in band about the periphery of the covering that engages the fan frame member. Since both Calvo and Anetrini disclose ceiling fan blades having covers, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the cover of Calvo, with the teachings of Anetrini, by providing a band as claimed for the purposes of securing the covering to the fan blade frame.

Claims 26, 27, 30 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burt in view of Keyes. Burt discloses all of the claimed subject matter except the cover being fabricated from Spandex™ or other fabrics, having a plurality of tabs, or an air freshener concealed in a pocket of the covering.

Keyes teaches covering for a ceiling fan blade wherein the covering can be made of spandex or other lightweight fabrics and has a plurality of tabs to secure the cover to the fan blades (column 3, lines 40-65). Keyes also teaches an air freshener concealed in a pocket of the covering (column 4, lines 19-23). Since both Burt and Keyes disclosed ceiling fan blades having covers, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the cover of Burt, with the teachings of Keyes, by fabricating the cover from a material as claimed, providing tabs and an air freshener concealed in a pocket of the covering for the purposes of fabricating lightweight fan blades, securing the cover to fan blade and providing air freshening deodorant to the ceiling fan environment.

Claims 32 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burt in view of Anetrini. Burt discloses all of the claimed subject matter except for the cover including a sewn in band about the periphery of the cover.

Anetrini (5,516,264) teaches a ceiling fan cover wherein the covering includes a sewn in band about the periphery of the covering that engages the fan frame member. Since both Burt and Anetrini disclose ceiling fan blades having covers, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the cover of Burt, with the teachings of Anetrini, by providing a band as claimed for the purposes of securing the covering to the fan blade frame.

Claims 31, 45, 49, 51, 56 and 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calvo in view of Burt. Calvo discloses all of the claimed subject matter as stated above except for the plurality of ceiling fan blades being covered by a one-piece covering.

Burt teaches a one piece covering 20 covering a plurality of blades 13/14. Since both Burt and Calvo disclose ceiling fan blades with covers it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the cover of Calvo, with the teachings of Burt, by disposing a one-piece cover on plurality of blades for the purpose of simplifying assembly.

Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calvo in view of Hardee (4,676,721). Calvo discloses all of the claimed subject matter except for attaching an air filter to the covering.

Hardee teaches a covering having an air filter attached to it. Since both Calvo and Hardee disclose ceiling fans with covers and it is well known that ceiling fans can be used to filter the air that it is circulating, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the cover of Calvo, with the teachings of Hardee, by attaching a filter for the purpose of filter the circulated air.

CONCLSUION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 9, 20 and 29 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
